

ABM Federal has over 40 years of specialization in the public sector market, focused on “Office IT.” Personal computing, networked printing, and unified A/V conferencing systems are the core technologies that drive how effectively end users in any organization work and communicate, regardless of location.

Selecting and procuring these endpoint systems for a public sector entity can be time consuming. Configurations and options are challenging, asset tracking is limited, and CIOs now view these endpoints as a leading cybersecurity vulnerability.

ABM Federal has the technical knowledge, services, and contract vehicles to help customers with straightforward design & implementation, frictionless procurement, clear visibility and effective management across IT environments, and an overall experience that puts security and compliance first.

ABM Federal is intensely focused on customer success through innovation.
